HEAVY RAINS IN WESTERN IOWA CAUSING FLOODING

Des Moines Fears Greater Flood Than in 1944

New Flood Merchant Moves on Missouri

By NEWSPAPERS

The water levels on the Des Moines river in Des Moines and Davenport were stated to be well above normal. The waters were said to be high enough to cause damage to homes and businesses in areas prone to flooding. The river was expected to continue rising, with forecasts predicting the crest to move over the levees. Residents were advised to take precautions and prepare for potential flooding.

Flood Delays Manly Rail Freight Trail

With the river levels rising, the Manly rail freight trail was kept closed due to flooding concerns. Crews worked to clear the tracks and ensure safety for the upcoming flood. The trail is expected to remain closed until the water levels recede and it is deemed safe to reopen.
